

TLG Open roles:

LCSW Psychotherapist:

The Leggett Group (TLG) is an independently-owned, established, innovative psychotherapy practice with locations in Roslindale, MA and Framingham, MA that has combined high-quality clinical services with a supportive, smart, collegial environment. The practice offers therapy in a wide-range of specialties, and has a strong identity as being a leader in perinatal mental health, LGBTQIA+ and trauma-sensitive care, as well as CBT, mindfulness and compassion-based psychotherapy.

The Leggett Group has a few openings in each of our locations for provisionally licensed therapists who are seeking a role in which to complete supervised clinical hours. We seek highly motivated, mature folks who would thrive in a high-support, collaborative group setting where innovating together as a team is a key value. In specific, we are seeking clinicians with experience in treating racial trauma, perinatal emotional concerns, LGBTQIA + emotional concerns, addictions, CBT, DBT and adolescent therapy or have strong general therapy skills and the desire grow in these areas. We match candidates up with experienced supervisors who are also FT staff members and are very accessible for support and learning. We are a staff-focused practice that provides many opportunities for professional growth and essential practice supports including targeted caseloads, case consultation opportunities, sponsored trainings and so much more. Opportunities to provide supervision or external training and consultation could exist in the future for experienced folks.

TLG is strongly committed to working towards anti-racism and anti-oppression, and is working towards equity in our practice together. TLG is doing this by providing monthly anti-racism trainings from a national consultant, using the AntiRacism Revolution membership community for all staff, and providing continual opportunities to think more deeply about where white supremacy lives in us all, and how to address that. We seek other professionals for whom these are essential values, and for whom this work is critical.

The Leggett Group is an equal opportunity employer, and clinicians representative of our diverse client population are especially encouraged to apply. Our practice distinguishes itself with beautiful offices, excellent administrative support and highly competitive pay and a full array of benefits. This practice is poised for success in healthcare models of the future, and now is a great time to join our team.
